The screenshot shows a Gmail interface with a search bar containing 'drgeorgepc@yahoo.com'. The email list shows one message from George Pararas-Carayannis, dated Fri, May 13, 2022, 4:00 PM. The email content includes a logo for 'Tsunami Society' and a subject line: 'Subject: NOTIFICATION: New Issue of Science of Tsunami Hazards, Vol. 41, No 2, (May 2022)'. A link is provided: <http://www.tsunamisociety.org/STHVol41N2Y2022.pdf>. The email is dated 13 May 2022 and begins with 'Dear Colleagues,'.

The Windows taskbar displays several open applications: WhatsApp Image...jpeg, 412Prasetyo.docx, and a search bar with the text 'Type here to search'. System tray icons include a battery level at 87%, a temperature of 24°C, and the date 10/02/2023.

The screenshot shows the full text of the email. It begins with 'Dear Colleagues,' followed by a paragraph: 'I wish to inform you of the May 2022 issue of Tsunami Society's Journal "SCIENCE OF TSUNAMI HAZARDS". For current and older issues go to: <http://www.tsunamisociety.org>'. A second paragraph states: 'For your information, our Certified, OPEN ACCESS Journal is included in the prestigious international academic journal database DOAJ. Our Journal has completed 40 years of continuous publication and we are now in the 41st year.' A third paragraph provides archival information: '"SCIENCE OF TSUNAMI HAZARDS" is also preserved and archived at the National Library, The Hague, NETHERLANDS and at the Library of Congress, Washington D.C., USA. Older issues are also archived at the U.S. Los Alamos Laboratory Library. Furthermore, "SCIENCE OF TSUNAMI HAZARDS" is included in EBSCO, ELSEVIER and several other publishing databases, which give the journal additional global exposure and readership in the databases of 90% of the academic institutions worldwide, including access to databases in more than 70 countries.' The final paragraph mentions: 'Tsunami Society International, participates with DOAJ, the European Library at the Hague and European research libraries to help digitize all articles in our journal SCIENCE OF TSUNAMI HAZARDS' and make them

Tsunami Society International, participates with DOAJ, the European Library at the Hague and European research libraries to help digitize all articles in our journal SCIENCE OF TSUNAMI HAZARDS™ and make them searchable online with the submission of metadata. We spend a great deal of time in this effort so that we can increase, even more, the visibility and usage of the articles included in our journal.

The listing below provides the titles of papers of the current May 2022 issue, the names of authors and their affiliations, and a link to the entire May 2022 journal. Another page is under preparation giving links to each individual paper in this current issue, and will be soon available for added distribution.

With Best Wishes,
