Reviewer 1

The study focuses on the function of guidance and counseling services in Indonesian higher education. Here are some critical points to consider:

1. The study lacks clarity and organization. It jumps between different topics and ideas without a clear structure. It would benefit from a more cohesive and logical flow of information.
2. The study briefly mentions the historical manuscript of counseling in education and emphasizes the need for appropriate counseling and guidance for students. However, it does not provide a comprehensive justification for why this research is necessary or the specific gaps in the current counseling system that the study aims to address. Including more background information and highlighting the significance of the research would strengthen the study.
3. The study mentions that the research is qualitative and utilizes descriptive analysis. While this provides some information about the methodology, including more details about the research design, data collection methods, and sample size would be helpful. This would give readers a better understanding of the study's approach and its potential limitations.
4. The study briefly mentions that Indonesia has implemented facilities and plans for counseling and guidance in the education sector, but they are not fully implemented, and there are gaps in the plans. However, it does not provide specific details about the findings or recommendations of the study. Including a summary of the key findings and recommendations would provide readers with a better understanding of the study's outcomes and implications.

5. The study mentions that the research will contribute to the existing body of knowledge and benefit the education sector in Indonesia, particularly students pursuing higher education. However, it does not elaborate on how the research will contribute or provide specific information about the potential impact. Including a brief statement about the expected contributions and implications of the research would enhance the study.

Reviewer 2

The manuscript addresses and timely research topic. However, it has several limitations that need to be rectified.

1. The manuscript lacks a clear structure and organization. It focusses on different topics and ideas without proper transitions, making it difficult to follow the flow of the content. It would benefit from dividing the information into distinct sections and paragraphs to improve readability and coherence.
2. The manuscript mentions several references but does not provide proper in-manuscript citations or a reference list. It is crucial to include accurate citations to give credit to the original authors and allow readers to find the cited sources for further reading.
3. The manuscript presents information about counseling and guidance in higher education institutions without critically evaluating the existing literature or presenting differing perspectives. To provide a comprehensive review, it is essential to critically analyze the strengths, weaknesses, and gaps in the research conducted in this field.
4. The manuscript presents various facts and information without synthesizing them into a coherent narrative. To enhance the effectiveness of the literature review, it is important to integrate different findings, concepts, and theories into a cohesive discussion.
5. The manuscript focuses primarily on the role of counseling and guidance in Indonesian higher education institutions but lacks a broader contextualization or comparison with international practices. Including a comparative analysis or discussing relevant global trends would add depth and breadth to the discussion.

Endang Pudjiastuti Sartinah:

The paper "The Role of Guidance and Counselling Services in Indonesian Higher Education" has been reviewed again.

I appreciate the authors' effort to revise the manuscript. However, still, it needs improvement in the following areas.

- The study could benefit from improved language and writing style. Some sentences are repetitive or awkwardly phrased, which affects the overall clarity and readability. Revising and editing the study for improved language and style would enhance its effectiveness.
- The manuscript does not mention any specific recent studies or publications, which might limit the relevance and currency of the information provided. It would be beneficial to include more recent sources to reflect the current state of research on guidance and counseling in Indonesian higher education.
- Including a detailed methodology section would enhance the credibility and transparency of the research.

The paper can be resubmitted for review after huge improvements, and this does not guarantee it will be approved.

If you have any questions, please contact me. Thank you for considering this journal as a venue for your work.
